MR. W. F. ALLEN,

PRAYERS FOR ANNEXATION

Far south across the ocean waves, Under azure-blue sky, Free now from all despotic knaves, Lies my Hawaii.

П. And now for annexation we pray; Let the star banner fly, And shoulder to shoulder with you we will stay, Here in Hawaii.

III. Oh, Uncle Sam, take home thy bride Without delay; Annex the islands, receive the brown maid— Receive Hawaii!

Hawaii! Land of sunshine and of song, Land of eternal summer, ever gay, Within thy shores the stranger ling'r-ing long, Will learn to love thee, and will sue to stay.

Far from the continents of earth art thou, Thy coral isles uplifting high in air, To reach thee man must mighty oceans plough, And brave the elements that bear him there. But who would not the raging tempest face,

To tread thy sands and feel thy soft sea breeze. Is there on all the earth more placid place, Where man and nature are so much at ease? Is there a spot where warmer hearts are found? Is there a race more loving and more kind?

Do not thy lovely isles in love abound? A land of beauty and of love com-

No stirring scenes of strife can thee disturb, Unruffled rolls thy lustrous life along, Sun-showers and shadows signally superb. Contribute to thy captivating song. Thy snow-like clouds by trade winds softly stirred, Fringing with frost the mountain tops at morn, Waft on their airy way through space unheard. Like downy swan on glassy surface borne.

The twin-born rainbows, spanning thy high hills, Thy valleys, picturesque, that intervene, The stony streams and rapid rushing Present a picture pleasing and se-

MAUL NEWS.

Teachers' Confab at Wailuku.

During Friday, the 7th inst., forty and more teachers, from Wailuku, Lahaina and Makawao districts, assembled in the Wailuku School House and held a meeting most successful, both from a social and an educational standpoint.

The assemblage was called to order at 9:30 A.M. by J. A. Moore, and W. C. Crook was asked to act as chairman for the day and W. Saffery of Olawalu secretary. The first event on the programme was a talk upon "methods of teaching language," by F. W. Hardy, who discussed dictation, reproduction and original composition for three quarters of an hour. St. Piiania of Wailuku followed, telling very pleasantly his method of conducting language lessons with younger pupils. J. L. Dumas, in the absence of Miss Mc-Lennan, talked informally concerning primary geography, and recommend-ed modelling from sand or putty from the start—even during the first six months of school life.

One of the strong features of teaching Hawaiian geography, as related by D. D. Baldwin, is to so interweave history with it as to render the study more interesting and profitable, i. e.— when teaching of any locality introduce any history connected with it.

Just before 12 m. it was voted to form a Maui Teachers' Association. The officers chosen for the ensuing year are as follows: H. S. Townsend, president; J. A. Moore, J. L. Dumas and F. W. Hardy, vice-presidents; Miss Mossman, secretary; and as an executive committee, W. C. Crook, D. D. Baldwin and Peter Noa.

It was also voted to hold gatherings of two days' duration, three times per year, providing of course that the consent of the proper authorities can be obtained. For the delightful lunch provided by the kindness of Mesdames Simp son, Dumas, Miss Needham and other ladies many thanks are due. At 1 P. M. work was resumed, and W. C. Crook showed to the convention some unique ways of testing answers obtained through addition, multiplication and division. Then Mrs. Dumas in a most attractive way talked upon the kindergarten system of teaching numbers to beginners. tioned was that of establishing a store and using money (toy), so that the older pupils might obtain ideas

Mr. Moore did not relate his thoughts upon "Class Exercise in Arithmetic," not wishing to detain the teachers, as some of them had long distances to travel homeward. resolution was unanimously passed, that the assembled teachers of Mani endorse the practicability of an educational journal for the islands-if the assistance of the Board of Education can be obtained in the matter. It was remarked that a monthly journal of 32 pages could be published at an annual expense not exceeding $500, and would be infinitely more profitable than any number of most successful teachers convention. Mr. Dumas was selected as a committee of one to take the matter in charge.

Adjourned at 3:15 P. M. with a twenty or thirty mile ride before some of the pedagogues.

STRAY SCRIBBLINGS.

Wailuku donned a lively air during yesterday while in possession of the teachers. The presence in town of Mr. H. S. Townsend, of Lahainaluna, and Mr. Henry Dickinson, of Labaina, were noted.

Easter Sunday or "the Sunday of Joy," was remarkable at the Paia Foreign Church for the beautiful lilies that adorned the pulpit, and for the thoughtful sermon read by Mr.

G. E. Beckwith. The death of Mrs. Manuel Ross, wife of the well-known Wailuku livery stable keeper, occurred during the P M. of Sunday, the 2d inst. She was taken sick upon the previous Thursday of what was thought to be typhoid fever, and died on Sunday. The funeral took place on Monday.

J. V. Montgomery, agent for a number of books, has been on Mani during the week. One hundred and thirty dollars were realized from the last enter tainment at Mannaoln Seminary. Mi-s Anna Paris, after a pleasant visit with her many Makawao friends, embarked in the Hall for Kona on Annexation papers have been in circulation in Wailuku and Makawao for a short time. There is talk of a meeting in Wailuku next week. There is considerable fever prevalent in Wailuku.

The Claudine came into view on Wednesday morning, towing the large bark, Forest Queen. Captain Dyreborg, after discharging a part of his cargo of coal in Honolulu, returned to discharge the remainder at Kahului.

The tiny Waimanalo bobbed up serenely on Tuesday, none the worse after her accident of last week. She made her usual weekly trip to Molokai with cattle.

During Wednesday the Claudine towed the Alden Besse out of the harbor, and Captain Fries is again on his way to San Francisco with sweet freight. Early Friday morning the Likelike unexpectedly touched in at Maalaes bay. Mr. A. M. Hewett of Honolulu, who was a passenger, was put to the discomfort of walking to Waikapu before an express could be obtained. It would be a public benefit if the Maalses telephone should be put into good working order.

News came to hand by this steamer of the most critical condition of Mr. Willow Baldwin, who has been suffering for some time with typhoid fever at Makaweli, Kanai. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Baldwin, depart for Kauai to day. No fault concerning weather this Maui, April 8, 1893.

THE ISLANDS.

April Hawaiian Number of a Popular Magazine. The California Magazine presents in the April number no less than four important papers on the subject of Hawaii. The first of these comprises some posthumous articles by King Kalakaua. "The Ancient Hawaiians," by E. Elsworth Carey, is a description of the Island kingdom under the rule of the Kamehamehas. James O'Meara gives the history of Hawaiian annexation from the first endeavor down to the latest strenuous efforts in this direction, and F. R. D. describes the recent overthrow of the Hawaiian Government. Among the vast amount of published material regarding the World's Fair, the dry humor contained in May Bigelow Edmond's article on "The First Exposition," and the comical illustrations from Punch are an agreeable variation. Dr. Fred. W. D'Evelyn's article on "Assegai and Shield" is a spirited account, with copious illustrations, of warfare among the Zulus. Richard H. McDonald, Jr., writes of the evils of election frauds. and ex-Governor Sheldon has prepared an important paper on "Silver Coinage." Dan de Quille is the author of a highly entertaining dialect story entitled "Peter Crow Among the Witches." A series of beautiful reproductions of some of the most famous paintings selected from the private collections in San Francisco form the illustrations for an able article on Pacific coast art by Genevieve L. Browne. A characteristic feature of the April number is a critical analysis of the works of Walt Whitman by John Vance Cheney. In connection with this paper is a biographical sketch of the "Good Gray Poet," by De Witt C. Lockwood. Poems and stories by L. H. Foote, J. La R. Burnett, George C. Brooke, William Francis Barnard, James Buckham and others also appear. For sale at the newsdealers.

Favors a Protectorate.

MANCHESTER, N.H., March 24 .-Rear-Admiral Belknap, discussing the Hawaiian question, expressed himself warmly in favor of the United States assuming a protectorate over the islands. "Of course people who have not been there might talk against it," said he, "but the interests at the islands are so plainly American that the United States cannot afford to throw the plans aside. If this country does not assume a protectorate Great Britain will quickly do so."
